

Accountancy firm adds another string to its bow - IT Support and Services.

Based in Corsham, Wiltshire, Aylmer-Kelly now offers IT support and services to their clients through a new partnership formed at the end of last year.

Alison, who is an ex-partner of a leading South-West firm of chartered accountants, created AAK Accounting services about 18 months ago to offer accountancy services to small and medium sized owner managed businesses. At the end of last year the new partnership was formed when James Aylmer-Kelly joined as the IT Partner.

"We believe these new IT services complement the existing accountancy services excellently and our goal is to help reduce the burden of our clients managing these areas themselves" said James.

Coming from an engineering background, James has worked in the professional services industry, both internally and for external clients as well as managing IT for companies one of which was regulated by the Financial Services Authority (FSA).

As well as offering IT support and services to the existing accountancy clients, Aylmer-Kelly also service sole IT clients and have been involved in several projects including a new online business networking application which is currently being developed.

Aylmer-Kelly offer a range of IT services from getting new businesses onto the internet to planning complex network installations. "We can advise new businesses on getting connected to the internet, we can then supply hardware and software, install everything and make sure its all linked up and ready to go and running smoothly".

Aylmer-Kelly has recently moved into new offices at Pickwick Park in Corsham, giving more space and better facilities. "We moved into the offices in April with a smooth transition allowing us to keep working hard for all of our clients" said James.
